7 FIRES LAD TO INSANE MAN: 'BRANS' OF YOUNG GANG

Compound Interest
Lindbergh's Legend
G. B. Shaw on God
11,394 Barren Churches
By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

An anonymous British patriot has given $50,000 pounds to be held by Haring Brothers for many years. Interest compounded and accumulated and the total used finally to diminish Britain's debt.

One dollar placed at compound interest when Christ was born would now pay the debts of the whole world, public and private, and leave plenty over. It is a fascinating idea. But Britain directly or indirectly will pay the compound interest on the $50,000 pounds. You cannot make something out of nothing, compound interest, or anything else.

Lindbergh possesses an admirable style, which is the absence of any effort at style, the style born in a man of power. Cromwell possessed it, no words wasted, nothing important omitted.

Describing an ancient fortress on a Haytian mountain top, 2,000 feet high, flying low Lindbergh saw heaps of antiquated rounded cannon balls, piled row on row, and told how the negro king, Henri Christophe, to prove the perfect discipline in his army, "marched an entire company over one of the precipitous walls" to death.

The legend is easily believed, for military and religious discipline accomplish miracles. He makes people believe in them. Jewish historians tell of a pretended Messiah, long after the coming of Christianity, who finally came to believe in himself and ordered a host of his followers to walk with him on the water separating Europe from Asia. They, believing, followed and were drowned with him.

In 1919 George B. Shaw wrote Tolstoy, "God does not yet exist, but there is a creative force constantly struggling to evolve an executive organ of godlike knowledge and power."

Every human born represents that effort to produce good, according to Shaw. He says the modern conception of God surrounded by inferior beings, "like a Russian nobleman," is barbarous.

Darwin never went as far as that. In evolution, Shaw, who says, "a God of love could not be at the same time a God of Fate" turns to Page 8, Column 1.

Ford Quoted in Hub Fight on Capital Punishment

USE SACCO CASE, BIBLE IN DEATH CHAIR BATTLE; CLAIM INNOCENT KILLED

Quoting Henry Ford and the Scriptures, as well as reams of statistics, speakers urged the abolition of capital punishment in Massachusetts before the judiciary committee of the Legislature today at the State House.

Increasing interest in the problem was evidenced by the presence of the largest gathering of any legislative hearing ever held on the question of capital punishment. More than 200 persons packed the hearing room and crowded the committee to make the Harvard Auditorium, where they could be accommodated.

Several members of the former Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee attended the hearing and further Jackson, who played a prominent part in efforts to save the two men, spoke against capital punishment.

POLICE BELIEVE INSANE MAN TRAINS YOUTHS TO HELP HIM START FIRES

An adult pyromaniac, in whose warped brain the treacherous cunning of seven incendiary fires in South Boston churches is believed to have originated, was sought by police today as the leader of a gang of boys who actually set the torch to the religious edifices.

One man in particular is sought, a character about thirty years old, known to be demented and possessed of an insane urge to "see the fire engines."

This man, or the leader of the boys, if the person under suspicion is able to prove his insanity, is suspected of having set the original incendiary blaze in St. Augustine's Church two weeks ago and since that time to have employed children of irresponsible age to carry out his malignant desires.

The two boys whose alleged confessions have cleared up the mystery surrounding fires in one church and in St. Peter and Paul Parochial School yesterday, were not members of the gang in the opinion of police.

RAID STATE ST. RUM
While hundreds of rum runners still cut all sort-of-a-rate-in the street, a squad of police headquarters have raided a den of iniquity and in one office seized nearly three gallons of liquor and arrested two men.
The police arrested gave notice, but police believe them to be fighting.
Yesterday the same squad seized rum runners, one in Dorchester, another in Roxbury and another in South Boston, arresting six men.
The police are now on a cleanup program in the downtown district where rum runners operate their dens.

BELIEVE CRAZED FIREBUG TRAINS BOYS TO AID HIM IN WORK

SUSPECT IS KNOWN TO POLICE

The church fire, which was caused, was undoubtedly set. The school boys that endeavored to save the church were not injured, but the work of the boys was temporarily interrupted by the confusion attending the setting of the fire.

Of one suspicious fire, the mystery of two only has been cleared up.

Two more, those that occurred in churches last night, are known to have been the work of boys. However, the boys were not under the same working conditions as the boys who were under the instructions of the demoniac.

May Be a Woman

The man suspected was a resident of South Boston and three years ago was taken into custody in connection with a fire that was caused by him. Police have no particular evidence against this individual, but believe that setting of him may result in a confession.

It has been definitely established that the fire last night in the church was set by a boy named John J. Egan, a resident of South Boston. The fire was caused by the boy's throwing of a match into the altar.

In the former church, the man was discovered in a cell, and the presence of the man was known only to persons familiar with the premises. The man was taken into custody by the police and is now in the city hall.

One of the boys suspected in the church fire is a resident of South Boston. The boy is a resident of South Boston and is a resident of South Boston.

Quiz Another Boy

Another boy of the same age was questioned at the Oliver Perry school by Officer John J. Egan. The boy answered the questions given by a Sunday school teacher and the father of St. Eulalia's Church of a youth who was taken into custody before the fire last night.

The boy denied his presence in the vicinity of the altar and the altar and the altar. The boy denied his presence in the vicinity of the altar and the altar.

While there is every evidence that an adult is responsible for the incendiary plot, it is quite possible that the adult is a woman, according to Captain Henry of Station 12, who has 30 minutes detailed in police clothes to capture the suspect.

On the other hand, the promissory may be a man arrived in woman's clothing, and as detailed above to enter churches alone or with one or two boys without exciting undue alarm, the police captain declared.

Suspect a Fanatic

The strongest indication that a person being in direct or indirect responsibility for the fire is the fact that all of them have been in churches, the authorities say. This

American Lauded for $500 Firebug Reward

Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley and clergy connected with four of the five South Boston churches fired by incendiaries today voiced their commendation of the Boston Evening American's offer of a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the pyromaniacs.

SPERMINTENDENT CROWLEY

"It is splendid that the Boston Evening American is offering this reward and we appreciate it very much. I hope that it will bring good results. We are glad to have the cooperation of everybody, especially that of the newspapers. They are always of valuable help in such emergencies. Personally, I'm glad for any and all outside assistance that is offered, particularly if it helps to expedite this investigation."

BOY ARMED Police

States Officer "Trainer and Boston, from the five incendiary edifices, were among the child's peculiar mental attitude, described as a combination of kindness and confidence. He was like a boy, it was said, than his age.

Femiano's elder brother, Fred, and a youth named John Kelly were sent to a reform school last November after having been found guilty of starting several incendiary fires in the neighborhood of South Boston.

The child, in addition to being a pyromaniac, for breaking and entering, has been in the hands of the authorities a half dozen times. He was last taken to the police station on the charge of breaking and entering.

On one occasion he was suspected of having broken into his father's store and removed the bells from a safe. Regarding the incendiary plot, he was last taken to the police station on the charge of breaking and entering in the day.

Before reaching the Miami-Correl Lindbergh moved up and joined the squadron formation for half an hour. He waved his hand in salute when he was seen from the tower, to fly above the remainder of the distance.

Porter-Prince, said, Feb. 8.—President Burns, General Russell, American ambassador, and other officials were present at Bowen Field and met Lindbergh on his return.

After thanking the President for his reception, the flyer climbed in the silver-winged Spirit of St. Louis and started for his last port of call on his good will flight.

The flyer arrived at the field at 6 a. m. with General Russell and Mrs. Russell. He found 500 persons already there to see him.

At 6:30 the Spirit of St. Louis took the length of the field to the west and halted, while Lindbergh climbed out for a final check on the machine. He turned it east and took off at 6:32.

What! No Hot Dogs! Pupils Find Life Full of Trials

The ubiquitous "hot dog" hated by millions of persons yearly at the most toothsome of delicacies, has been placed on the index of extravaganzas of the Medford Junior High School.

Because it has been more or less forbidden in the diet of some of the children, the school committee turned Hambs down on the hot dog, which went in vain vainly in the hands of things forgotten by the Junior High School lunch-room.

RANNEY FIGHTS MOVE TO ALTER COURT POWER

Governor Fuller's inquiry in the Sacco-Vanzetti case was characterized as "unprecedented" and "unnecessary" by former Assistant District Attorney Dudley F. Ranney of Norfolk County at a hearing today before the legislative Committee on Judiciary at the State House.

Ranney, prosecutor of the famous case from January, 1925, up to the date of execution, charged that the investigation was brought about by pressure brought to bear through the spending of enormous sums in propaganda.

He vigorously opposed the recommendations of Governor Fuller and the judicial council to allow the Supreme Court to make findings of fact as well as of law in appeals in capital cases.

LET LAWS STAND.
The Supreme Court, he told the committee in the presence of 219 spectators in the Gardner auditorium, is primarily a court of law and has been since its inception.

"Existing laws that have been laws for more than 100 years should not be changed unless someone has been injured," he declared.

He asserted nothing has happened in bringing about such a radical change as that sponsored by the Governor and the judicial council.

NO REASON FOR INQUIRY.

"One of the Governor's reasons, and also of the judicial council, is that it will stop Governors in the future from having to consider a capital case as was done by our Governor," he said.

"There was no reason for such an investigation," he went on. "These defendants had enormous sums. There was constant propaganda going on."

The jury, he reminded his hearers, are close to the witnesses who serve them and among other things has the opportunity to observe their capacity for the truth.

CHELSEA'S NEW 'MAYOR' FOR MORE 'PLAY'

Twenty new firemen of Chelsea were all worn out by their heavy helmets today while they waited in vain for a fire.

It isn't the usual practice to wear helmets in expectation, but these were Boy Scouts, assigned as firemen, the Boy Scouts having taken over the running of the city for the day.

Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley took a look out from 19 a. m. to 5.30, while Samuel Ficksman, 11-year-old member of Troop 1, a pupil at the Shurtleff School, functioned as Chelsea's lord. Young Ficksman had been elected mayor by the Scouts.

Mayor Samuel's first act was to deliver an enthusiastic inaugural address, after he had been escorted to the Mayor's chair by Mayor Quigley, his secretary Frank McLaughlin and the Mayor's telephone operator, Mrs. Esther Yarnall.

In his inaugural Mayor Sammy announced his appointment, asked for police protection for coaters on all hills, recommended an enclosed article, and then, after a short speech, wound up by advocating "more and better playgrounds throughout our fair city."

OPERA PAGEANT MAJESTIC, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Matrons and Debs Vie With One Another in Matter of Costuming

GRAND OPERA'S EIGHTH EVENING OF MUSIC AND display found the present one majestic on with effects both operatic and aristocratic, unimpaired. Satisfying to the eye and to the ear was last evening's offering. And more than satisfying were certain variations of costume and variations of group in the boxes, in the parterre and in the orchestra. Those who haven't come out for their Grand Opera before are now flocking to the opera house. And as for the regulars, their interest never flags. They never miss a performance.

ENSEMBLES SUCH AS MRS. JAMES A. PARKER WORE ARE quite the thing for Grand Opera this season. Matrons and girls alike choose them with taste and wear them to perfection. Mrs. Parker's was in Persian red, a wrap of Oriental silk patterned in gilt and a gown of rose silk. About her throat was a long, slender platinum chain studded with diamonds. Miss Virginia Parker's gown more modest and her dancing like earrings were exactly of a color and vastly becoming. Mrs. Robert Stewart wore a rose-mauve velvet frock. Miss Elizabeth Sherburne was in velvet also, a bright petal-pink, and her wrap for the promenade was a cream silk embroidered shawl.

FROM OUT OF THOUSANDS BOXES, FOR THE OPERA, Mrs. William York Peters, Jr., selected a rose thirt-neck and molislin wrap. Mrs. Alan Forbes and Mrs. Augustus N. Randall sitting together in orchestra, chairs were distinctly pleasant to the eye. Mrs. Forbes wore a crimson frock and taupe wrap with beige for collar. Mrs. Randall's ensemble was black velvet and ermine. Miss Agnes Herdick's transparent velvet frock, draped in the ancient hemline, was of new leaf green.

IN A BOX AT THE RIGHT, MRS. HERBERT BRAMWELL SHAW met a battery of longstretcher brilliantly costumed in turquoise blue, a blue that had the requisite gleam and glitter to be exactly in the mode. In the Harry Hill Thordike box Mrs. Thordike had the pretty youngest daughter of the family, Miss Winifred Thordike, wearing a period gown of off-white moire. Mrs. Richard Russell, in a centre box, was wearing a formal black velvet to which diamonds and pearls added further formality. Mrs. Harold Whitman's transparent black velvet was quite unadorned, and it had the up and down hemline as well as the smartness all Mrs. Whitman's gown have.

MRS. ALBERT ASSET'S ORCHID CHIEF GOWN WAS RICHLY ornamented in beads and sequins. Mrs. John Homan wore a rose brocade and added a clever arrangement of gold and black square for elaborateness. Mrs. Benjamin Fredericks of the Hotel Sheraton is a devoted opera lover. Her group one evening included Mrs. Sidney First of Lockhaven, Pa. TEN MATRONS, EACH DISTINGUISHED IN CERTAIN WAYS and each sufficiently ornamental for the post, are to be in the receiving line when Copley Society folk don the money and give their Mardi Gras Ball in Revereory Hall. Shrove Tuesday is the date. And thus with dance and revelry the Society unites in the sackcloth and ashes period. Holker Abbott and his fellow members are bringing to bear on the affair every ingenuity of costume and pictorial effect they are masters of.

AND AS EVERYONE ABOUT TOWN KNOWS, THE COPLEY Society in times past has so, for costume balls, the most brilliant of parties. For authority and elaborateness, Copley Society balls need to be Boston's nearest approach to a Beau Arts affair. If they run true to form this season, some original and effective costumes will result. Madames Leverett Bradley, Frederick Briggs, Arthur T. Cabot, Cyrus E. Dallin, Thomas G. Frothingham, John Chipman Gray, Louis Levoisne Green, Calvin Gates Page, H. Winslow Pierce and Edward R. Warren do the honors of the receiving line.

A TEA THAT HAS AS ITS SPECIAL ATTRACTION GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING merits much more attention than the ordinary tea and cake affair. Certain matrons having at heart the interests of the Robert Brock Brigham Hospital bring the General to town for the 5 o'clock rites tomorrow afternoon. The festivity takes its informal way at the Women's Republican Club. Matrons as official hostesses, satrons to sit behind the urax, and others to pass the tea and cake are enrolled.

MRS. ALVAN T. FULLER IS A HOSTESS. SO ALSO ARE Madames Walter C. Bayler, Lloyd T. Brown, Philip S. Dalton, Robert B. Dixon, Hannah M. Edwards, Waldo E. Forbes, Hollis French, Joel E. Goldthwait, Borg, I. Lee, John F. Moore, Arthur Perry, Jr., Philip L. Saltonstall, Jr., Phineas W. Sprague, Edwin Sibley Webster and Charles F. Wood. Those who pour the tea and pass the cakes are Mrs. Lincoln Hayles, Miss Eleanor Dixon Booth, Richard Saltonstall, George E. Stephenson, Edward Hoar Warren and Miss Cornelia Balch.

UNITING THEIR EFFORTS IN A TWO-DEBUTANTE festivity, Mrs. John Graham Palfrey and Mrs. Henry Endicott gave a choice party last evening at the Copley-Plans for Miss Lee Palfrey and Miss Ellen Endicott. Successfully pruning a dance list from several hundred down to two is a feat not to be undertaken lightly. Mrs. Endicott and Endicott achieved the almost impossible, and gave the delicate and yearning girls a good time even though the stag line was not of enormous proportions.

DINNER FOR FORTY GUESTS, THE EVENING'S PRELIMINARY, was set out on tables prettily rose bedecked. Dangling in the foyer or bridge in the same contrived to satisfy the set that must with a go at the cards. The two hostesses and the two hosts, receiving informally, were pleasantly in contrast, Mrs. Palfrey and her daughter the petite type, and Mrs. and Miss Endicott, Juno-esque and lassie-sim.

EXCITING HUNT FOR GOSNOLD'S WHISKERS

London, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Harry Neyland, artist and sculptor of New Bedford, Mass., appears to have half the antiquarians in England busy trying to find out whether Bartholomew Gosnold, first Englishman to set foot in New England, had a "mender" or "whisker" beard.

At the British museum, the Royal Geographical Society, English universities, libraries and art galleries, experts are consulting tomes and delving into ancient chests of maps. They are hunting for a picture of the Elizabethan mariner in whose memorial is to be erected at South Dartmouth, Mass. It is near there that Gosnold landed in 1602.

The memorial is sponsored by Colonel H. R. Green, son of the late Hilly Green, and will be executed by Neyland. They wish to make it as authentic as possible and Neyland is pondered about Gosnold's physiognomy that he came to England on one of the oldest missions that ever brought an American here. Yesterday Neyland uncovered a deformed map of the British museum which, at first thought would give an exact description of Gosnold's appearance, but close examination indicated the artist probably never saw Gosnold or America. American Indians were shown in the former as welcoming the stranger under an elaborate manner and carrying umbrellas, and Gosnold himself was not dressed in the proper costume of the period.

Neyland is still searching, undecided whether he will decorate the discoverer's face with square-jawed whiskers or give him a neatly pointed little fringe, since both types of heads were worn by the Elizabethan adventurers.

OPERA PAGEANT MAJESTIC, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Matrons and Debs Vie With One Another in Matter of Costuming

GRAND OPERA'S EIGHTH EVENING OF MUSIC AND display found the pageant moving majestically on with effects, both operatic and sartorial, undiminished. Satisfying to the eye and to the ear was last evening's offering. And more than satisfying were certain variations of costume and variations of group in the boxes, in the galleries and in the orchestra. Those who haven't come out for their Grand Opera before are now flocking to the Opera House. And as for the regulars, their interest never flags. They never miss a performance.

ENSEMBLES SUCH AS MRS. JAMES A. PARKER WORE ARE quite the thing for Grand Opera this season. Matrons and girls alike choose them with taste and wear them to perfection. Mrs. Parker was in Persian red, a wrap of Oriental silk patterned in gilt and a gown of rose silk. About her throat was a long, slender platinum chain studded with diamonds. Miss Virginia Parker's green mink period gown and her dangling lace earrings were exactly of a color and vastly becoming. Mrs. Robert Stenert wore a rose-mauve velvet frock. Miss Elizabeth Sherburne was in velvet also, a bright pinkish pink, and her wrap for the promenade was a cream silk embroidered with stars.

FROM OUT OF TROUSSEAU BOXES, FOR THE OPERA, Mrs. William York Peters, Jr., selected a rose tinted frock and mink wrap. Mrs. Alan Forbes and Mrs. Augustus N. Rantoul sitting together in orchestra, chairs were distinctly pleasant to the eye. Mrs. Forbes wore a crimson frock and taupe wrap with beige for collar. Mrs. Rantoul's ensemble was black velvet and ermine. Miss Agnes Murchie's transparent velvet frock, draped in the uneven hemline, was of new last green.

IN A BOX AT THE RIGHT, MRS. HERBERT BRAMWELL SHAW met a battery of inspectors brilliantly costumed in turquoise blue, a blue that had the requisite gleam and glitter to be exactly in the mode. In the Harry Hill Thorndike box Mrs. Thorndike had the pretty youngest daughter of the family, Miss Winifred Thorndike, wearing a period gown of off-white mink. Mrs. Richard Russell, in a centre box, was wearing a formal black velvet, with diamonds and pearls added further formality. Mrs. Hendricks Hallet Whitman's transparent black velvet was quite unadorned, and it had the up and down hemline as well as the smartness all Mrs. Whitman's gowns have.

MRS. ALBERT APESE'S ORCHID CREPE GOWN WAS RICHLY ornamented in beads and sequins. Mrs. John Homans wore a rose brocade and added a clever arrangement of gold and black squares for elaboration. Mrs. Benjamin Fredericks of the Hotel Shattuck is a devoted opera goer. Her group one evening included Mrs. Sidney Furst of Lockhaven, Pa. Mrs. Fredericks wore black lace and Mrs. Furst wore lace and chiffon. Miss Marjorie Chis-

TEN MATRONS, EACH DISTINGUISHED IN CERTAIN WAYS and each sufficiently ornamental for the post, are to be in the receiving line when Copley Society folk don the motley and give their Mardi Gras Ball in Repertory Hall. Shrove Tuesday is the date. And thus with dance and revelry the Society ushers in the sackcloth and ashes period. Holter Abbott and his fellow members are bringing to bear on the affair every ingenuity of costume and pictorial effect they are masters of.

AND AS EVERYONE ABOUT TOWN KNOWS, THE COPLEY Society in times past has set, for costume balls, the most brilliant of paces. For authenticity and elaborateness, Copley Society balls used to be Boston's nearest approach to a Beaux Arts affair. If they run true to form this season, some original and effective costumes will result. Madames Leverett Bradley, Frederick Briggs, Arthur T. Cabot, Cyrus E. Dallin, Thomas G. Frothingham, John Chipman Gray, Louis Lawrence Green, Calvin Davis Pace, H. Whitcomb Pierce and Edward R. Warren do the honors of the receiving line.

A TEA THAT HAS AS ITS SPECIAL ATTRACTION GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING merits more attention than the ordinary tea and cakes affair. Certain matrons having at heart the interests of the Robert Brock Brigham Hospital bring the General to town for the 8 o'clock rites tomorrow afternoon. The festivity takes its informal way at the Women's Republican Club. Matrons as official hostesses, matrons to sit behind the urns, and others to pass the tea and cakes are enrolled.

MRS. ALVAN T. FULLER IS A HOSTESS. SO ALSO ARE Madames Walter C. Baylies, Lloyd T. Brown, Philip S. Dalton, Robert B. Dixon, Hannah M. Edwards, Waldo E. Forbes, Hollis French, Joel E. Goldswold, Roger L. Lee, John F. Moors, Arthur Perry, Jr., Philip L. Salmon, Jr., Phineas W. Sprague, Edwin Silber Webster and Charles P. Wood. Those who pour the tea and pass the cakes are Mrs. Lincoln Baylies, Miss Eleanor Dixon Booth, Alice Salmon, George E. Stephenson, Edward H. Warren and Miss Cora Salch.

UNITING THEIR EFFORTS IN A TWO-DEBUTANTE festivity, Mrs. John Gorbham Palfrey and Mrs. Henry Endicott gave a choice party last evening at the Copley-Plaza for Miss Lee Palfrey and Miss Ellen Endicott. Successfully pruning a dance list from several hundred down to two is a feat not to be undertaken lightly. But Madames Palfrey and Endicott achieved the almost impossible, and gave the debutantes and year-out girls a good time even though the evening line was not of enormous proportions.

DINNER FOR FORTY GUESTS, THE EVENING'S PRELIMINARY, was set out on tables prettily rose bedecked. Dancing in the foyer or bridge in the salon contrived to satisfy the set that dances and never ceases, or those who like to vary the tepid champagne motif with a go at the cards. The two hostesses and the two debutantes, receiving informally, were pleasantly in contrast, Mrs. Palfrey and her daughter the petite type, and Mrs. and Miss Endicott, Junoesque and handsome.

EXCITING HUNT FOR GOSMOLD'S WHISKERS

London, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Harry Nyland, artist and sculptor of New Bedford, Mass., appears to have half the antiquarians in England busy trying to find out whether Bartholomew Gosmold, the Englishman to set foot in New England, had a "pende" or "pallito" beard.

At the British museum, the Royal Geographic Society, English universities, libraries and art galleries, experts are turning heads and driving into ancient chests of maps. They are hunting for a picture of the Elizabethan mariner to whom a memorial is to be erected at South Dartmouth, Mass. It is clear there that Gosmold landed in 1602.

The memorial is sponsored by Colonel R. Green, son of the late Betty Green, and will be awarded by Nyland. They wish to make it as authentic as possible and Nyland was so puzzled about Gosmold's physiognomy that he came to England on one of the oddest missions that ever brought an American here. Yesterday Nyland uncovered a decorated map at the British museum which he at first thought would give an exact description of Gosmold's appearance, but close examination indicated the artist probably never saw Gosmold or America. American Indians were shown in the drawing as welcoming the explorer under elaborate canopies and carrying umbrellas, and Gosmold himself was not dressed in the proper costume of the period.

Nyland is still searching, undecided whether he will decorate the discoverer's face with square-toothed whiskers or give him a neatly pointed mustache fringe, since both types of beards were worn by the Elizabethan adventurers.

FIGHT BUILDING OF OIL TANKS ON MYSTIC

Petitions protesting granting permission to the Somerville Coal Company to construct seven underground tanks for 20,000 gallons of gasoline each and three tanks for 20,000 gallons of light fuel oil each on the Mystic river at No. 592 Mystic avenue, Somerville, are being circulated through the neighboring community and the Hill section to be presented to the aldermen tomorrow night at a public hearing.

The Men's Club of St. Polycarp's Catholic parish is circulating the petition and Chairman Edmund J. Maloney said today the club has obtained signatures of 200 persons protesting the permit.

Mr. Maloney says the tanks would be within 200 yards of the St. Polycarp's Church. In process of construction at Temple street and Mystic avenue, that across the street is a ledge where dynamite is stored for blasting purposes, while a coal wharf and barrel plant are near. The protesters believe the tanks would be a fire menace.

The Somerville bathing beach is not far distant from the proposed location, and the committee says if boats come up the river with crude oil and gasoline, the waters will be polluted.

PASTOR 'CRUEL' WIFE CHARGES

Danvers, Feb. 8.—There isn't the slightest chance for reconciliation between her and her minister husband, Mrs. Gladys Robinson, wife of the Rev. Frederick C. Robinson, resigned pastor of the Thompson Methodist Episcopal Church, declared today.

The minister resigned suddenly and the reason was a mystery until Mrs. Robinson filed her divorce petition in Providence.

Today she explained she had been with her people in New York for six weeks and made her decision to sue for divorce after she returned. "I am sure and going to sue on any ground other than cruelty," she said.

"I will get my divorce; I am confident of that. Then I shall move to New York, hoping that all recollection of my husband will fade away from my mind."

The couple formerly lived in Norway and in Newton Highlands, Mass.

'DAUGHTER' OF CZAR HERE TO PROVE CLAIM

New York, Feb. 8.—A new chapter may be written into the tales of Russian horror, with the arrival of Miss Anastasia Tchakovsky in New York today on board the Brestgaria.

Mrs. Tchakovsky, traveling under an assumed name, comes to America in the hope of proving her claim to be the daughter of the slain 'Czar Nicholas, last of the Romanoffs.

Mrs. William B. Leeds, former Princess Xenia, of Greece, whose guest Miss Tchakovsky will be during her stay here, will aid the Russian exile in proving she is the former Grand Duchess Anastasia.

Miss Tchakovsky claims to have been taken up in the little cabin in the dining room when her father, mother, brother and three sisters were slain and to have been left for dead.

She was saved, she says, by a Russian soldier named Tchakovsky, whom she later married.

She was identified as the grand duchess by her uncle, Grand Duke Andreas Vladimirovitch Romanoff, before she left Paris for America, a German newspaper says.

Olaf Urdin, son of the physician to the late imperial family, now living in New York, says he played as a child and is positive that Miss Tchakovsky is the 'Czar's daughter.

The arrival of Miss Tchakovsky has created a mild furor in local Russian circles. Some Russians accept without reservation her claim to royal blood, but others are openly sceptical.

There is a marked difference of opinion among Russian noblemen and nobleswomen who foregather occasionally at the Russian Refuge Red Cross and the Russian National Mutual Aid Society.

The conservatives Novoye Russkoye Slovo, local daily, planned to launch today the issue of Anastasia. The local Communist weekly, Norny Mir, will openly accept at her claim to royal blood.

Many and varied cases arise only a few days after the death of a person, as in the case of the Russian American Christian Aid Society, which has been organized for the purpose of helping the Russian refugees.

Teeth Sparkle Like Precious Jewels

When dingy film is removed new way

(FREE 10-day test will prove it)

IN hundreds of thousands of cases it is discovered that teeth, thought naturally "off color," are actually dazzling white. A film coat makes them dull and dirty. When you remove it the new way teeth take on a brilliance that amazes.

A simple test proves the great truth of this discovery. A test that starts the film and screen have made by scores. It has taught them their most important beauty aid.

A new way in tooth and gum care removes the dingy film that clouds your teeth. A film that absorbs discolorations and keeps teeth dingy.

Just run your tongue across your teeth. And you will feel that film. It is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It forms a breeding place for germs. And germs, with tartar, are the chief

Souls of Women Were His Pawns—

"Ellis held Laura in his arms, kissing her fiercely. My heart you ding with—ry, I suddenly stepped from my hiding place and confronted them in the moonlight. Ellis leaped to his feet, and—"

NINETEEN—pretty as springtime—mordy as an April day. That's Laura. She joins George, her guardian, at the breakfast table.

Laura—Oh, George! I met the most wonderful man at the Country Club Dance last night. Handsome as a god—and a divine dancer. Hilary Ellis is his name. I'm so anxious to have you—Why, George! What is the matter?

George (who has suddenly gone deadly pale)—It's nothing, dear (he tries to smile), kind of dizzy for a moment, that's all. I get those spells. It's the old head, I guess... You were saying—

Laura (happily)—He has asked me to go with him to the masquerade. May I accept?

George—Why—why, yes—I guess so—

Laura—And you'll go, too, won't you, George? Then you can meet him. T'ien...

The garden of a country estate. It is night. The air is soft and still, and heavily scented with flowers. From the big, brilliantly-lit house beyond come the strains of dance music, faint echoes of merriment, gay laughter.

A man and a girl, their arms about each other, slowly emerge from one of the shadowy garden paths. They pause by the fountain.

The Girl—But you don't understand, Hilary, dear. I can't leave George like that. Why, she's all I've got. She has been like a mother to me.

The Man (taking her in his arms and kissing her fiercely)—But I love you—love you, darling. Come with me now—we'll be married the minute we cross the state line. I'll take you straight to Australia, where we can—

From the concealing shadows a woman's figure suddenly appears on the moonlit path.

The man leaps to his feet; the girl cries out in amazement; but the newcomer, ignoring the girl, advances on the man, her eyes blazing with fury.

"You dog!" she cries. And with her open hand she strikes him a stinging blow in the face.

Next instant there flashes between them the gleam of a weapon. There is a short, sharp struggle. Suddenly three shots come quickly. One of the struggling figures aways, slowly crumples, lays still.

Thus it begins—the cyclonic drama of a woman's desperate battle to avenge her honor, and to save an innocent, trusting young girl's soul.

Never has the ruthless conflict between Good and Evil been more vividly presented. Lived right out of life, its astounding reality makes fiction seem commonplace and dull in comparison. No one who reads this heart-grIPPING narrative, told by one of those who actually lived it, will ever forget it. It is entitled "He Broke One Heart Too Many," and appears in March True Story Magazine.

Gripping Stories From Life

Ever since man began to record his thoughts, deeds and emotions, the most dramatic, most thrilling, most heart-grIPPING stories have been those drawn from human experience. And life today, with its countless problems, is richer in human drama than ever before.

Right now there are thousands of men and women who could record experiences more startling than were ever written into a novel or invented for the stage. Sometimes they open their hearts and frankly reveal the secrets of their lives, so that others can profit by their experiences.

It is such revelations that appear each month in True Story Magazine—all of them vivid, pulse-quickeners, powerfully dramatic narratives that grip the imagination and stir the emotions as only stories of real life can do.

If you are not already one of True Story's millions of readers, the big March issue will give you a chance to get acquainted. It contains fourteen thrilling features. You cannot afford to miss them. Your newsdealer can supply you. Get your copy today.

STEWART UNDER ROCKEFELLER'S ORDER TO TALK

Washington, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, appeared before the Senate Tieset Committee in connection with the investigation of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., it was disclosed today in correspondence made public by the committee.

Regret that Stewart did not answer all questions put to him by the committee was expressed by Mr. Rockefeller in a letter to Senator Walsh of Montana, predecessor, under date of February 3, the day the Senate ordered the arrest of Stewart, who subsequently obtained his liberty on a writ of habeas corpus.

Before the standard of Indiana, Mr. Rockefeller returned from Havana, Mr. Rockefeller wrote Stewart, the situation with respect to the Continental Trading Company's Liberty bonds had reached such a stage that "nothing short of the fullest and most complete statement of all the facts can clear the minds of those who, like yourself, had had no improper connections with the transactions in question, and remove the cloud of suspicion which hangs over the entire oil industry."

Bailed at every turn in his effort to disclose the ultimate disposition of the short-lived Continental Trading Company of Canada, the Senate Tieset Committee adjourned today subject to call of the chairman, after five days of testimony of three witnesses.

Cooperation of Mr. Rockefeller with the committee was asked by Senator Walsh in a letter of January 18. Mr. Rockefeller replied immediately, saying that it was as much the duty of the officers of a corporation as it was of private citizens to observe both the letter and the spirit of the law.

NEW HAVEN MAY

The New Haven and Pennsylvania railroads may soon be equipped with oil-burning Diesel engines, according to both steam and electric types of locomotives, Attorney George O. Barnes, representing the New Haven road, revealed at a legislative hearing today.

He made his surprise announcement while arguing against a resolve introduced by Representative Alfred N. LaBrecque of Guilford, calling for investigation by the Metropolitan Planning Division into the expediency of electrifying the New Haven main line from Boston through Quincy and as far as Braintree.

Victory Smile

A three weeks' hunt for a man who had been annoying women in Lynn motion picture theatres was climaxed today in Lynn court when Horace Anderson, 31, of Fayette court, was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction.

Anderson was captured in a Monroe street theatre after a 27-year-old mother had uttered a shriek and and then had started pummeling the man seated beside her.

Sergeant William Murphy, who was detailed three weeks ago to hunt for the man, and who has spent every evening since in making rounds of theatres, pulled out the man who was found to be Anderson.

The name of the woman was withheld by the police, even during testimony, but she was complimented by Judge Reeves for her courage in making an outcry where other women had kept silence until complaining to the police later.

conflict on charges preferred by Mrs. Doris Kresge.

When the case was heard, two detectives testified they followed Kresge from the church to his love nest, with Gladys Adon Fish of Natick, Mass.

According to the Rev. Ralph W. Rockman, pastor of the church, action may be taken to drop Kresge's name from the membership rolls.

Washington dispatches said the Anti-Saloon League has no intention of returning to Kresge, long known as an ardent prohibitionist, the $500,000 which he recently gave to the League for propaganda in the advancement of the dry cause, according to F. Scott McBride, head of the organization.

Representative Boylin (D) of New York, demanded in Congress that the gift be returned as "tainted money" because of revelations of Kresge's drinking parties contained in Mrs. Kresge's divorce action in New York.

Word from Detroit, Kresge's home town, said the Michigan Law Enforcement League will not accept gifts from Kresge until he explains the charges of which he was found guilty in the divorce proceedings.

L. H. Bowen, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Law Enforcement League, today issued this statement: "Owing to the many inquiries reaching us, I wish to say we have instructed our representatives to accept no contributions from S. S. Kresge, until he makes satisfactory reply to the charges involving his personal conduct and liquor drinking."

Filk was standing outside Finkel's drug store when two pieces of fire apparatus struck the drug-gift's car, which was thrown on the sidewalk, and almost severed one of Filk's legs.

Negligence on the part of the firemen was alleged, and that Finkel was liable because he had violated an ordinance of the city of Boston in leaving his car at the curb.

Nickel Phone Game

Nickels were piled at one "mouth each today" in Municipal court—five cents a month, or something.

At any rate, Frank T. Whitely and Edward Moore drove each a "skunked" sentence after being fined each of stealing six nickels from the telephone company.

According to the charge, their game was to stuff return ways in telephone coin boxes with paper wafers. Then when a cash customer tried to get a number and could not reach his party, and the nickel was thrown back—why, the nickel would be slipped by the wafers.

Frank and Edward, making regular rounds, would pull out the wafers, collect the nickels and return the nickels, according to the charge.

But police inspector planted six marked nickels in six coin boxes and had them thrown back. Then he watched.

BROTHER FOUND
D'ALESSANDRO ALONE, DYING

Testifying that he found his brother alone and dying, with neither doctor nor nurse in attendance, Felix D'Alessandro, in Probate Court at Dedham today, added his bit to the story of alleged relations between Dominic D'Alessandro, wealthy Italian official of Quincy, and his secretary, Miss Elizabeth M. Houseman.

The brother, testifying as a witness for D'Alessandro's widow, who is seeking to prevent the $120,000 estate from going to Miss Houseman, declared that a doctor he called "after he called the man the look and would take care of things," he said.

"I first met her in 1909 when she was employed at union headquarters in Albany at $1 to $10 a week. When my brother and wife were living apart, he told me he could not take her back because Miss Houseman and she did not get along together. Once he told me he made a mistake when he took Miss Houseman into his house, but later he said he would provide a trust fund for his wife if she would go back to Italy alone."

Washington, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—Before a group of representatives of American labor, Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor of Minnesota, today asked the Senate Judiciary committee to act favorably on his bill to limit the jurisdiction of courts in issuing injunctions in labor disputes.

The bill of Senator Shipstead, which was endorsed at a conference of representatives of American labor unions, would define property for the purposes of protection by injunction as "property" which is tangible and transferable.

Model 37

The astonishing price of the new, no-tube, Full-Range Unit, self-contained A. C. set includes everything except tubes and a speaker. No power accessories required—no batteries, no charger. For use with 110-115 volt, AC, alternating current. Uses six A. C. amplifying tubes, and one rectifying tube.

Why don't we boost it harder?

AFTER a few days' experience with the new Atwater Kent A. C. set, radio listeners say to you:
"You didn't tell us half when you said this was a good set. It's more than good. It's a wonder! Why don't you boost it harder?"

We do boost it. The trouble is that words cannot tell the whole story. A few evenings in your home—that's the way to find out—from the Atwater Kent 37 itself.
It is so small you can place it anywhere. The cord that brings the power from a lamp socket of the house lighting system (at a cost of only a fraction of a cent an hour) is more than ten feet long—giving you your choice of position. The unusual design and the soft glowing beauty of the satin finish please everybody.

Now for listening!

With a tiny gold switch you snap on the power. With the Full-Range Dial you summon the programs. It's magic—this Full-Range Dial. You see it all at a glance. You jump from station to station in a split second. It's like hitting the bull's-eye with every shot!

And the tone! When you realize that the re-creative genius of this set does full justice to the voices of the artists and the music of their instruments, you will marvel how such perfection can be attained.

Raise the lid!

For your answer—raise the lid and make a closer examination than you had time for in your first eagerness to see what the set would do.

You will see how the space-saving compactness of the set has been accomplished—how the cabinet is so constructed that it completely shields the electrical assembly inside—how the power supply is doubly shielded—how every visible part is beautifully made and finished. You will know it to be a fact when we tell you that the parts you don't see—even the tiniest of them—have received equal attention. You will know that all this counts in the performance of the Atwater Kent 37—in your lasting satisfaction.

How they talk about it!

Lasting satisfaction! You must have it. That is why we match every working part of every receiver—why we put every receiver through 225 tests or inspections—why many parts are tested for accuracy to a fraction of a thousandth of an inch—why every tenth employee in the whole 15-acre Atwater Kent factory is an inspector or tester.

That is why so many people—veterans of radio and novices—have bought this new self-contained A. C. set—why many are buying two sets for different parts of their homes—why they're telling their friends about it and the astonishingly low price made possible by big-scale production—why, almost overnight, the Atwater Kent 37 has become the most popular radio in the world.

Try it. You'll see!

If you must use batteries

MODEL 33 is an extra-powerful, extra-selective battery set. Designed for use where unusual results are necessary but A. C. electricity is not available. Full-range Dial. Solid mahogany cabinet. Six tubes required. Price, without accessories, $75.

NICARAGUANS HEAR OF NEW MEXICAN PLOT

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 8.—The Nicaraguan Government has received confidential information from agents abroad that a new movement is organizing in Mexico City to support another invasion of Nicaragua.

The information comes direct from the same source that tipped off the Nicaraguan Government last year when the strange Tropical and Southern United States and American troops landed on the east coast of Nicaragua.

It is impossible here to know the details of the plot, but it is assumed that Washington will lose no time in instructing Ambassador Morrow in Mexico to investigate the truth of these reports.

Barry, Long-Count Referee, Is Suspended

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Dave Barry, referee of the world's heavyweight championship match in boxing, long known as "Long-Count" Barry, at Soldier Field last September, has been indefinitely suspended by the Illinois Athletic Commission. It was announced today by Chairman Paul Pridemore.

In addition, Barry's license as a referee was revoked.

Barry, the athletic commission stated, entered an amateur boxing match in the gold room of the Congress Hotel last Tuesday, that was not sanctioned by an amateur body recognized by the commission.

The commission's investigation then revealed the fact that the referee was required to box on a platform more than four feet high, which was not equipped with ropes or ring posts.

BOXING BOARD OPENS STATE-WIDE CAMPAIGN

By JACK CONWAY

THE Massachusetts Boxing Commission today opened a State-wide campaign to rid the ring game of fly-by-night promoters and the jumping-jack type of matchmaker.

It is the intention of the commission to make it impossible for small operators and town promoters to operate in the State without the approval of the commission.

The boxing board in Massachusetts has been organized in a high hall and it is only in out-of-town spots that promoters have had an opportunity to get in their work.

The commission intends to make a special inspection of the State's boxing scene, and it is expected that the commission will be able to rid the ring game of fly-by-night promoters and the jumping-jack type of matchmaker.

Lindbergh's Own Story

"THE Take-Off for Paris."—This is the title of tomorrow's installment in this remarkable life history of the world's premier aviator. Remember, it appears only in the Boston Evening American.

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Jerry King, good-looking, charming and 19, meets Saxon Rhodes, a young Boston architect, and falls in love with him at first sight. Her fascinating mother, Maria, warns her that idealists like Saxon make unsatisfactory husbands.

Maria tells Jerry she hopes she is not counting on marrying Saxon—that he has not enough money. Wondering if he had better give Saxon up she gets a reassuring note from him.

Six months later the moonlight king Jerry confesses to Saxon that she is madly in love with him.

They meet often and late one afternoon she comes into his office and his uncle, to whom he owes everything, discovers him kissing her.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 9
Paul stopped quickly before the hall, musing that he hadn't guessed someone was there. He might have heard their voices or seen the shadow of their forms—

A moment later the door opened. They came out, chatting easily, unconcerned that anyone had seen their stolen meeting.

"—hello," said Saxon, flushing. "I'm glad to see you. I've been thinking of you."

Paul greeted them in his courtly manner. Jerry's radiant face lit up. "I'm glad to see you," he said. "I've been thinking of you."

He went in and sat at the large high board that was his aunt's. Saxon's sketches were laid carefully before him.

Paul glanced at them, became excited, then sat very patiently. Suddenly he looked at the table; he called out.

"It's all pulled open the door. I'm glad to see you."

He remembered the dark eyes of Saxon's mother, Maria, looking at him with a look of challenge.

He never failed, thought Paul—his mother's eyes were always looking at him with a look of challenge.

He began to wonder about Saxon's mother. He remembered the dark eyes of Saxon's mother, Maria, looking at him with a look of challenge.

85 YEARS of Life Insurance
IDEALS and SERVICE!

AN ideal became a reality when, on February 1st, 1843, "The Mutual Life of New York" issued its first policy. The business of life insurance on the mutual plan started in America then and there.

Priority in its field is not the Company's claim to greatness—age in itself is no great distinction. The Mutual Life began with high ideals of business conduct, which still prevail. It aims at quality and to be highly honorable in all its dealings.

In its relations with policyholders and their representatives The Mutual Life has an outstanding record; and it quotes with pride from the report of the last periodical examination of its affairs by the Insurance Department of the State of New York:

"A large volume of new business, selected according to the company's high standards was placed on the books. The rate of mortality has declined to a very low point and as a result it was possible to distribute to policyholders dividends according to successive increasing scales. Investments are particularly well secured. At the same time policy contracts have been liberalized and clarified, and the treatment accorded to the policyholders and their representatives has been eminently fair and just."

JOYCE BROTHERS' SOCIETY DINES

Woman Is Revived After Heart Stops Beating 5 Minutes

Chicago, Feb. 8 (A.P.)—A case in which a heart stopped beating for five minutes and then was resuscitated after an operation in Cook County Hospital.

The patient was Mrs. Gertrude Harper, 40, of Chicago, who underwent an operation in Cook County Hospital.

She apparently succumbed to the effects of an anesthetic and her pulse stopped. The doctor said extreme measures to revive her were resorted to only after artificial respiration and adrenalin had failed.

"I continued the injection," Dr. Kantor said, "grazed the heart through a diaphragm, and squeezed it for a minute and a half. Circulation was then restored."

JOYCE SOCIETY HAS ANNUAL DINNER

One hundred and fifty members of Joyce Brothers & Company, Boston, dined at the annual dinner of the Joyce Society at the Hotel Westminister last night.

The dinner was presided over by Mrs. John L. Mansfield, wife of the president of the Joyce Society.

The dinner was a success and the members of the Joyce Society were very much pleased with the results of the year's work.

BIG MURDER HEARS 'JEWELS' OF MADONNA

Woolf's "Jewels" which carries to their logical extreme the mode—adornment, fashion and refinement of "Fugate City" and "Cavalcade" has been given a huge audience by the Boston Opera House, where the Chicago Opera Company presented it to the last.

After hearing a concert of symphonic music in the afternoon, this reviewer could find little faulting in "The Jewels" music. It may be said that the comparison is unfair, but it is the opera, not the music, that is the subject of this review.

Timely Suggestions

President Coolidge Makes Three of Them in His Speech
Dedicating the National Press Club

Three main suggestions, all timely and sound, were made to the press of the United States by President Coolidge in his speech dedicating the National Press Club—one of the best documents on journalism ever made by a public official.

One was that American newspapers ought to be pro-American always.

This does not mean servile acceptance of every policy put forward by our Government. The value in constructive criticism is vital and the President cheerfully bore testimony to it.

But it is not patriotic or just to assume that, as a rule, in every difference which our State Department has with other nations or other nationals, the State Department is wrong and the foreign nation or national is right.

After all, the American Government is the creation of the American people. American newspapers professing to serve the American people should therefore give the American Government the benefit of reasonable doubt.

Another suggestion of the President was that, since our Federal Government does not, as it should, require lobbyists at Washington to register and deal with the public business publicly, the press should throw upon their activities whatever publicity it can.

The Hearst newspapers are glad to act on that suggestion. The third of the President's suggestions was that the press seek to re-establish and surpass its former guidance of public opinion.

It will be able to do so only by increasing its Americanism and its candor.

The World Is Not Round

Ask Voliva, of Zion City. He Knows

Mr. Voliva, head of Zion City, intelligent enough to know that it is impossible to exaggerate the number of fools in the world, and therefore prosperous, is off to prove that this earth is not round.

He asks: "If it WERE round, how could ships stay on?" He may find the "brim" of the earth and come back to tell about it.

Kruger, late President of the Boer Republic, also denied that the earth is round. "If you say that, you contradict the Bible," said he.

Voliva also warns Commander Byrd that there is no South Pole for him to find. That South Pole, he says, is the edge of the world, a circle 60,000 miles in circumference, surrounded by a wall of ice 15,000 feet high. Even that would be worth seeing, on a planet having a circumference of 25,000 miles from the Equator.

Modern Viking Stuff

Air Instead of Waves

Four Scandinavian airmen, members of the American Viking Aeronautical Association, plan a series of great flights, including one around the world, via Rio de Janeiro, India, South Africa, Turkey, Italy, Copenhagen, and from Denmark back to New York.

That would interest the old Vikings that first came to America in their little boats, and their savage brothers that traveled along the edge of the Atlantic in Europe, dashing up the Seine, the Loire and other rivers, conquering, murdering, robbing and enjoying themselves.

St. Patrick's Wolfhound

Such Beasts Could Not Frighten Him

This giant Irish wolfhound, reaching up eight feet, as you see in the picture, can be found now only in dog shows or on estates of dog fanciers. Shanganagh, the dog in the picture, reaching for a lump of sugar held in the hand of his mistress, the fair Mrs. F. Bonnell, of Oakland, California, is said to be the tallest dog in the world.

But he would look small, effete, over-civilized, compared with Irish wolfhounds of the same breed that the great St. Patrick knew so well.

Many are familiar with incidents in the life of the good saint, how he defied and converted the pagan kings of Ireland, how he was kidnapped as a boy and taken by pirates from his home on the mainland to the Irish land, where he looked after swine in herds, and patiently awaited his chance. Not everybody knows that when he made his escape the ship that carried him back to the mainland had come to Ireland to get a shipload of gigantic Irish wolfhounds like the one in this picture, but frightfully savage.

They were used then in war, trained to fight, protected with iron spikes around their necks, and set loose to harass the enemy in the midst of the battle.

You can imagine the young St. Patrick, a mere boy, crossing the rough Irish Sea to the coast of France in a ship filled with dogs as big as this one, infinitely more ferocious, howling and snarling.

Such a dog could eat up a man if he got hold of him. And in savage fighting among Irish chiefs of the early days many a man met his death from the teeth of such dogs.

LOVE IS A SYNONYM FOR 'PANPATHY'

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PANPATHY is a word coined by the late Paul Carus, a compilation of whose writings by Catherine Cook lies before me.

It is a hard word, but it stands for a very real thing. We sometimes call it unselfishness or philanthropy or the love of God.

Perhaps the best synonym for it is love. Love, Dr. Carus points out, is nothing but the law of gravitation in its moral application. As gravitation is inherent in every particle of matter it attracts in some measure every other particle.

So love is inherent in every soul, and if it be not thwarted draws it out into other souls.

Panpathy, says Dr. Carus, is our attachment to the All of existence.

It is that in us which reminds us to sacrifice ourselves for a great purpose and inspires us to do noble deeds.

It begets in man the enthusiasm for justice and right, and makes him indignant at wrong.

"Panpathy," he continues, "is the wrath in the bosom of the oppressed; it is the fear of vengeance pailing the cheek of the tyrant. It speaks in the voice of the guilty conscience, and it is our comfort in affliction."

"Panpathy, in a word, is the quickening presence of the All in the heart of the individual."

This scientific language by a scientist is about something we all understand and experience.

We are attached to certain objects and persons.

Our supreme delight comes from association with these to such an extent that there is no punishment more to be feared than solitary confinement, and there is no individual more to be shunned than the confirmed egoist.

This is a good universe and we are good in proportion as we allow its current free play in us.

This is so true that love has been called the fulfilling of the law.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE a confession to make. I DO NOT ENJOY VERY NICE PEOPLE.

People whose motives are always of the best, whose conversation is always cheerful and discreet, who are never rude or violent or silly, whose accounts and consciences are always in order—they have one fault. They are not fun.

Perhaps I should feel reprehensible about this but I don't. I suspect that my reaction to such people is really healthy—that normal humans should not be uniformly sweet and serene—that there's something the matter with them if they are.

Katherine Mansfield felt that way about Nice People. In her journal, recently published by her husband, she wrote:

"The mind I love must feel wide places, a tangled orchard where dark diamonds drop in the heavy green, an overgrown little wood, the chance of a snake or two real in a garden, a pool that nobody's father owned the depth of—and paths threaded with these little flowers played by the mind. It must also have real hiding places, not artificial ones. And I have never yet met the cultivated mind that has been its slubbery. I loathe and distrust shrubberies."

Wild places, mysterious trails, weeds and flowers and trails in a rich tangled thicket—the sort of personality most of us admire. We admire it because it's a GROWING PERSONALITY.

Growing things are never static, never in perfect order. They change from day to day. Each day holds new developments, new surprises. Some of the developments may not be so good—some of the experiments may not disastrously. But they're all exciting and stimulating. THEY'RE ALIVE.

There's the secret of popularity—unhappy young women often come to me. "There's no one being so good."

It is human nature to resent goodness like that—to feel that it somehow cheats us. Goodness should be dynamic. It should add zest and interest and color to life. It should allure and enrich us, and if it doesn't we'll have none of it, no matter how unappealing. They're too good—no one people are so frequently unappealing. They're too good for nothing.

New York Day by Day

O.O.M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—In the old days most newspapers ended up as patterning old men in charge of the "morning" reference department—serving and filing today's news for future use. They usually began as office boys and completed the cycle, ending practically where they started.

It was a glamorous job with a dull finish. Out of New York, 20 years ago, it's a week was top salary for the reporter. The average wage was $15. There were no immunities prominent men in all walks of life privileged to say, "I used to be a newspaperman once myself."

Newspapermen more than any other profession, I know, have smashed barriers that tended to herd them off to inevitable mediocrity. They have acquired a stubborn resistance to dull and accidental formulae, "news," a newspaperman, always a newspaperman."

It's after a few years, they are no hope of promotion they leave it. They refuse to be ground down by the irreducible minimum and take a seat in a faraway corner calling "fillets" from exchanges. The newspaper job has become a real stepping stone.

Those who do not rise to the reporters or executives find a hundred or more avenues for expression of their talents. Even if they are not crack writers, but have developed keen news sense, they are able to step into $400-a-week press agent.

Practically all highbrow magazine editors today were graduated from the newspaper shop. It is no exaggeration that more than half the successful short story writers and novelists were reporters.

The "best stuff" in the United States—three reigning hits at present—are products of the guild. Top executive, the highest paid executive, and title writers. In the movies, sprang from the same source. To say nothing of several bankers, industrial magnates and a sprinkling of diplomats. It is not so tough to be a newspaperman, after all.

The big movie houses have inaugurated a bid for patronage that has during the past few months, gained popularity. They offer a Sunday symphony concert beginning at 11:30 A. M. and lasting one hour. It is a marvelous program. Just music. But those who wish may remain without further charge for the first regular program of the day.

The cinema, earlier, however, are losing patronage by the thousands. They are offering people into rapid spaces and forcing them to stand until seats are available. In most instances these people have been told by single flunkies seated in this fashion and do not get them as victims of a gripper. And no business can flourish on expediency—look at the night clubs. That is, if there are any left.

ANOTHER movie irritation is the custom of ushers jockeying people into seats. There are a few seats in plenty of first class seats available in some cases. Incidentally, that movie patrons are not so much as they ought were. There is a stored up wrath over these injustices that frequently results in an explosion and a bygone trained usher sets first hand information that his "ushering" is not so grand as his uniform.
